The book was written by Raj Haldar and Chris Carpenter, two friends who were looking for a fun way to teach their kids the alphabet. They decided to create an alphabet book that was full of all the things that they thought kids would find funny and interesting.

The result is a book that is full of laugh-out-loud moments. For example, the letter "A" is for "Armadillo," but the illustration shows an armadillo that is wearing a tutu. The letter "B" is for "Banana," but the illustration shows a banana that is shaped like a fish. And the letter "C" is for "Cat," but the illustration shows a cat that is riding a unicycle.

The illustrations in Is for Pterodactyl are just as bizarre as the rhymes. The animals are all drawn in a cartoonish style, and they are often depicted in unusual situations. For example, the elephant is shown playing the trumpet, and the lion is shown wearing a crown.
